

APS Leaders Institute:

APS Consistency: Current Trends,
Future Opportunities & Why It Matters

Description

With 58 county-administered APS programs in California, moving toward consistency can be very challenging. Join the APS Leaders Institute to learn about the national, state, regional and local APS consistency efforts that are currently underway and how they can support your program, your staff and the clients you serve. You'll also have the opportunity to connect with county colleagues to learn from one another and develop an action plan for moving APS consistency efforts forward in your county, your region and statewide.

Learning Objectives

- Identify current national, state, regional and local APS consistency efforts.
- Describe how implementing Consistency Guideline items will make a difference to your community, your program, and your staff.
- Connect with colleagues and identify local, regional and state efforts to improve APS consistency.
- Develop an action plan and share one way in which you will move APS consistency efforts forward.

Presenters

Akiles Ceron, MSW - APS Program Director for City and County of San Francisco, CA

Akiles earned his Master's in Social Work from California State University Long Beach. He has been a public servant for 23 years, working in various capacities within the APS program. He has been an instructor for three APS Regional Training Academies, training on Working with the Self-Neglecting Client and on Elder and Dependent Adult Financial Abuse. He has participated in the California Welfare Directors Association's Protective Services Operations Committee, and its Consistency Workgroup since 2010. The workgroup develops and maintains the CWDA's APS Guidelines to Supplement Regulations, and has developed guidance on Consistency in Case Documentation, Consistency in Findings, and Consistency in Outcomes in APS.

Julie Orozco, Deputy Director for Riverside DPSS, Adult Services Division

Julie Orozco serves as a Deputy Director for Riverside County DPSS, Adult Services Division. In this role, Mrs. Orozco oversees a portion of the county's Adult Protective Services (APS) and In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS) programs, as well as the APS Hotline. Mrs. Orozco worked for Riverside County, DPSS, Children's Services Division for eight years, and California State University, San Bernardino (CSUSB) for six years prior to joining Adult Services. Ms. Orozco earned a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology, with a specialization in Business Administration from the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). She then earned her Master's of Social Work (MSW) from the University of Southern California (USC) and is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker.
